

William is Feeling a Little Hoarse

Written By Chilli

Kara Danvers' eyebrows crossed in confusion as William Dey had cut off their conversation midway. His eyes widened in fear and existentialism as he was staring at the huge wall of television screens in media mogul, Ms Grant's office. Kara turned to see what had caught his undivided attention. The only thing she could see was the daily update from NASA on one of the multiple news stations. In a movement so quick that it even startled Kara, William jumped up out of his chair and grabbed his wallet before bolting out of Kara's super eyesight.

Frantic to get back to the quiet atmosphere of 'Supergirl' Dude Ranch near Midvale, William wildly careened out of his office area as soon as he realized what day it was today. The investigation had completely taken control of his consciousness these last few weeks, not to mention how bizarre Kara Danvers had been acting. None of that mattered at the moment as he rushed out of the doors of CatCo in a flurry. Today was the first day in so many years that there would be no asteroid in Earth-38's solar system. The first day in so many years he will not have the ability to maintain a humanoid form.

Confusion enveloped Kara as her mind just tried to process what on Krypton just happened. Determined to help out her friend, she took off towards the direction William had taken before disappearing. Using her super speed, she undressed down to her super suit and suddenly she was out of CatCo in the blink of an eye. She was so dazed with bewilderment, she accidentally nudged someone as she took off in search of William.

She found William shortly later in quite the predicament. William was hiding in the far back corner of an alley a few streets away from their place of work. As she stepped closer, the most bizarre thing happened.

In the blink of an eye, the William Dey she had come to know, and respect was, well, a horse? And not any horse in fact, but her best friend Comet the Super-Horse!

After the moment of confusion had worn away, Kara was overjoyed to be reunited with her seemingly long-lost friend.

Later that day, some of the most peculiar news stories covered the media outlets. The Midvale Newspaper reported that Supergirl and a magical white steed had been spotted enjoying the lovely spring afternoon. CatCo reported an incident where Supergirl had accidentally bumped into billionaire heiress, Lena Luthor, as she was on her way to drop off her wife's lunch for the day, while Kara happily reported to her wife, Lena, that she wasn't the only one that fell for the good, old glasses trick as she recounted how William Dey/Comet the Super-Horse had been just as naïve.